HENI Releases Vibration of Colour, a Collection of Paintings and Prints by Gérald Genta

HENI releases Vibration of Colour, a collection of paintings and a series of limited-edition prints by the legendary Swiss artist and watch designer Gérald Genta. The works span his decades-long artistic practice, ranging from the intimate landscape and still life paintings that he began in the 1950s to the esoteric, dreamlike abstractions of refractive colour that he made from the late 1990s through the 2000s.

The paintings and editions are released by HENI in collaboration with the Estate of Gérald Genta.

The original artworks and editions are available by application from 22 June until 17:00 BST on 1 July 2026 on HENI Primary and HENI Editions respectively.

Widely celebrated as the 'Picasso of Timepieces', Genta created more than 100,000 watch designs in his lifetime, most famously the Audemars Piguet Royal Oak and Patek Philippe Nautilus. Though most famous for his watches, painting was always at the heart of Genta's career. As Genta himself remarked, "It is painting that led me to design watches."

In the last two decades of his career, the consistent thread through Genta's paintings is a distinct fascination with colour as a vehicle for expression. In his Faces works, clusters of mask-like faces emerge from kaleidoscopic, coloured backgrounds and display a range of emotion. His later abstract works take these compositions a step further, orchestrating colour and contour to create vibrant, oscillating fields.

The original artworks are oil on canvas and measure between 27.5 x 22.5 cm and 170 x 170 cm (unframed).

The series of prints features six editions made after Genta's late abstract works, and are available in two sizes, 80 x 80 cm and 120 x 120 cm. The edition size of the smaller print is limited to 30 and the larger print is limited to 15. All works are hand-numbered and labelled on the verso.

A selection of the artworks are on display at HENI Gallery from 23 June until 1 July 2026. Admission to the gallery is free.

Gérald Genta

Though most famous for his work as a watch designer, Gérald Genta was always first and foremost an artist. Born in Switzerland in 1931, Genta developed an early passion for drawing. He never received formal training and throughout his life created his art instinctually. Genta's interest in drawing led him to become a designer, with his designs taking the form of paintings. He consistently worked from the perspective of an artist, approaching watches not as objects but as motifs for creative exploration.

In the 1950s, Genta started painting the world around him through landscapes, still lifes and portraits. He found inspiration in a range of sources such as the Mediterranean Sea, classical architecture and car design. In the 1990s, Genta began refracting these sources, with his works becoming increasingly more abstract and his focus narrowing in on colour and contour.

An abstract painting featuring several faces and hands in a vibrant, expressive style. The faces are rendered with bold, colorful strokes in shades of green, blue, yellow, and orange. The hands are depicted with thick, dark lines and are positioned around the faces. The background is a mix of these colors, creating a sense of movement and energy. The overall composition is dense and layered, with various elements overlapping and interacting.
